

A Debit/Credit Card Interchange Price Cap Will Mean Higher Fees for You

Tell your representatives in Congress...

YOU CAN'T AFFORD IT!

Because of legislation passed by Congress last year, the Federal Reserve is preparing to institute a rule that would cap the fees merchants pay to financial institutions like ours when people like you use their debit and credit cards to make purchases. If this change goes through, it will mean higher fees for you.

That's why it's so important that we stop Congress from allowing this new rule to be implemented.

“Imagine having to pay a fee for every purchase you make with your card.”

And that's why members of Congress in both the House and Senate are sponsoring legislation to delay and study that rule.

As your credit union, we care very deeply about this issue. If you share our concern, TAKE ACTION NOW and click here — dontmakeuspay.org — and make your voice heard on Capitol Hill.
